STOCKHOLMIA 2019 – The Rarity Auction

The 150th Anniversary of the Royal Philatelic Society London will be celebrated by the STOCKHOLMIA 2019 exhibition in Stockholm, Sweden. This event promises to be one of the greatest events so far in philatelic history. One of the many exceptional events will be the rarity auction conducted by the Global Philatelic Network.

The participating companies are now accepting consignments with a starting value of 1.000 euros (£900) for single items and 10.000 euros (£9.000) for collections. Most of the world's top philatelists are expected to attend the STOCKHOLMIA 2019 exhibition thus providing a unique opportunity to market exceptional single items and collections.

As a special bonus for larger consignments realising 50.000+ euros (£45.000+), the Global Philatelic Network offers to provide hardbound full colour books featuring up to 128 pages of any collection free of charge. These books will undoubtedly be a cherished souvenir of a collection painstakingly assembled over a long period of time.

The Global Philatelic Network is the Philatelic Partner of the exhibition and a substantial part of the proceeds from the auction commissions will be donated to the Royal Philatelic Society London.

Consignments are accepted until 15 March 2019 at the offices of any of the auction companies of the Global Philatelic Network (H.R. Harmer, U.S.A.; Heinrich Köhler, Germany; Corinphila, Switzerland and Netherlands; John Bull, Hong Kong). The STOCKHOLMIA 2019 rarity auction will take place on 1 June 2019.
